

VIRGINIA NEWS.

A Presbyterian church is to be erected at Bealeton, Page County.

Elijah M. Garrett has been appointed superintendent of the public schools of Richmond.

J. H. L. Key, of Richmond County, was thrown from a horse and instantly killed.

Mrs Alice Key, of Surry County, has been indicted by the grand jury of that county for forgery in raising the sum of a due bill.

At a meeting of the tobacco dealers in Petersburg a resolution was adopted recommending to planters the cultivation of the white Burley tobacco.

Rev. O. Elliston, pastor of the Baptist church at Berlin, Maryland, has died suddenly, having just having received a call to Washington city.

A five-year-old daughter of S. C. Taylor, of Accomac County, was killed a few days ago by a boy pistol fired in fun by an older brother.

A steamboat company had been formed in Petersburg to compete with the James River & Kanawha, having a capital of $100,000, with the object of developing the trade of the lower James River.

John G. Spanglerburg, a well-known citizen of Petersburg, has died. He held an important position in the confederate States quartermaster's department.

The postmaster on representation of the West Pointers have voted to increase the number of increasing the membership of that body from six-five to seventy-eight.

The city council of Fredericksburg have presented a memorial to the Legislature asking permission to complete the unfinished monument to Mary, the mother of Washington.

D. R. Rutledge, the superintendent of public instruction, has been appointed to the new position of negotiator with some railroad company, his appointment not to be announced until March 19.

The following postmasters have been nominated: John K. Hadley, of Rockville; John B. Bowles, Patrick J. Ryan; John E. Beard, Boardman; Richmond H. Williams, West Point.

The Legislature has passed the bill repealing the capitation tax on slaves, which it is intended is an amendment to the constitution it will be submitted to the people at the next general election.

The Greenbackers of the First Congressional District have voted to support the Greenbackers of Penshaw, Ritchie County, February 15, for the purpose of organizing for the next congressional election.

A number of railroad bills claiming attention is quite unprecedented. In the Senate they have a pretty fair time, but in the house they fare badly. It is almost impossible to have them through that body.

A bill has been introduced by the senate committee to appropriate $30,000 for the University of Virginia providing that the institution shall educate for three years all colored children who attend teach school in Virginia for three years after graduation.

A white woman, claiming to be from Boston, came to town about the day before yesterday and applied for lodgings at the house of a negro. Being refused she started to seek quarters elsewhere, and was knocked down and carried to a child in the main room. The town authorities took charge of her.—Christianity Messenger.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Charles Markwood, a white boy, was fined $20 for carrying a shotgun.

William Smith, a white man, was fined $20 for attempting to be driven a mile.

Spencer Webb, a colored man, was fined $20 for showing the paper to which his sleigh was attached.

An effort has been made to break up the gang of colored thieves who infest the Fifth Precinct, and four of them were caught in the charge of vagrancy and being disorderly charged.

Richard Churchman and John Porter, two colored boys, were observed before daylight yesterday morning attempting to force open the front door of several houses in the neighborhood. They were being cold had taken a little toddy, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Joseph T. Gordon, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Fourth and Franklin Streets northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

George A. Hall, an elderly colored man, was called up by the police and the colored men compelled to accept the charge of loud and boisterous talking and disorderly conduct. The prisoner explained he was a waiter and was carrying a tray when he was taken.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened. Fifteen days.

Mr. George T. Pease, a restaurant keeper at the corner of Franklin and Fourth Street northwest, was charged with violating the internal revenue laws by selling cigars that were not properly boxed, and was arrested. He will be tried for vagrancy.

He was charged with being cold, and that was how it happened.